4	I agree that schools should teach students more about saving and spending money wisely. To begin with, students who are taught about saving and spending money will be more likely to be responsible with money when they are older. They will understand the need to save and invest money. Furthermore, using electronic money has made it easy for people to spend too much. Because of this, they need to be taught about the good and bad points of using such money. So, I think that schools should teach students more about money.
